

Question: ...Pete Rose says publicly that he never gambled on baseball. A 1989 report to the baseball commissioner said that Rose gambled extensively and bet on his own team. Which do you believe, Pete Rose or the commissioner's report?

The Throw is in the Dirt

Source: Survey by the Gallup Organization, November 18-21, 1999.

Question: Before the gambling allegations Pete Rose was expected to be elected to the Baseball Hall of Fame. Do you think Rose should be elected to the Hall of Fame now?

Charlie Hustle in at Third

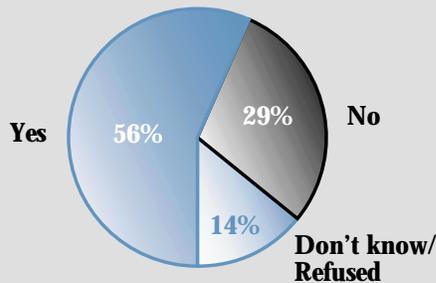

Source: Survey by the Gallup Organization, November 18-21, 1999.

Question: Pete Rose has admitted to sports gambling, but denies gambling on baseball. Do you believe Pete Rose when he says he didn't gamble on baseball or do you not believe him?

The Pitch

Question: As you may know, Pete Rose had the most hits of any major league baseball player ever, but was banned from baseball for life in 1989 after he was accused of gambling on the sport. Do you think he should be reinstated to baseball or not?

Source: Survey by the Associated Press, October 2-6, 1999.

Base on Balls

Source: Survey by the Associated Press, October 2-6, 1999.

The Play at the Plate

Source: Survey by Opinion Dynamics for Fox News, December 6-7, 1999.

Question: ...If you were betting on whether Pete Rose will eventually be allowed in the baseball Hall of Fame, would you bet that he will be allowed into the Hall of Fame or that he will not be allowed into the Hall of Fame?