There probably will always be mysteries surrounding “Watergate,” the web of scandals that brought down the presidency of Richard M. Nixon. We still don’t know who “Deep Throat” was, or exactly what Nixon knew and when he knew it.

As Watergate unfolded between 1972 and 1974, with such secrets only gradually coming to light, the public began to harbor doubts about how much they could trust this president, in matters touching many aspects of both his personal dealings and his dealings with the American people.

Question:
Do you feel President Nixon has been honest or not about the financing of his houses in San Clemente and Key Biscayne?

I Am Not...

[Let me read you some statements about Richard Nixon. For each, tell me if you tend to agree or disagree.]... He is a man of high integrity.

As far as the war in Vietnam is concerned, do you think President Nixon has been frank and straightforward about the war, or do you think he has not told the American people the real truth about the situation there?
