Free - Easy - Forever

Your work holds immense value, but the insights you generate are fleeting unless properly preserved. The Roper Center is an archive dedicated to the science of polling and the voice of the people — the best place to safeguard your survey research for the decades to come.

Why Archive at Roper?

Historical Record: Archiving ensures that future researchers, historians, and policymakers have access to your invaluable data.

Archive with Thought Leaders: The Roper iPoll Platform is the most comprehensive collection of high quality opinion data from the world's most reputable polling organizations.

Transparency and Reproducibility: Making raw data accessible allows others to verify findings, replicate studies, and build upon existing knowledge.

Data Management: Roper Center has strong data management practices including proper curation, version control, and a comprehensive Digital Preservation Policy.

Metadata and Context: Fully documented survey methodologies, sampling techniques, and full metadata ensures your work is evaluated properly.

Data Sharing Policies: We've developed clear data sharing policies that balance data protection with the imperative of promoting research and reuse.

ROPER CENTER

For Public Opinion Research

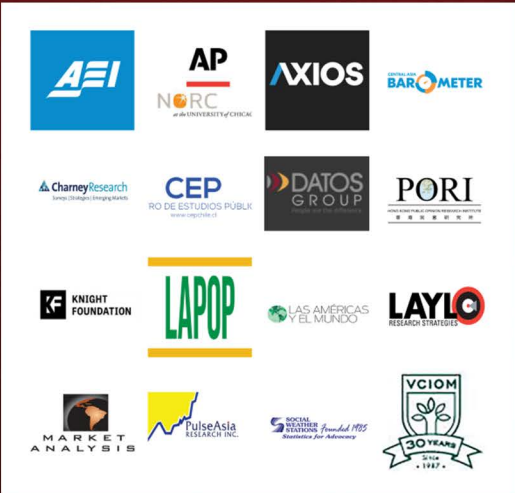

"Archiving our studies with the Roper Center extends the resonance of our work, preserves it for future researchers and – most critically – discharges our disclosure responsibilities. As the AAPOR Code makes clear, good citizenship in the survey community requires disclosure of questionnaires, data, datasets and related materials adequate to review and verify research claims. The Roper Center archive makes that responsibility a reality."

-Gary Langer, President
Langer Research Associates

"We give each pollster a Transparency Score based on the weighted average of the scores of its individual polls and whether it shares data with the Roper Center for Public Opinion Research at Cornell University or is a member of the American Association for Public Opinion Research's Transparency Initiative."
