Title: Social Capital Community Survey, 2006
Survey Organization: Saguaro Seminar at the John F. Kennedy School of Government, Harvard University. Interviews were conducted by TNS Intersearch.
Sponsor: For specific community level sponsors, see table 1 of the documentation.
Field Dates: January-August, 2006
Sample: National Adult = 2,741; Twenty-two communities sample = 9,359
Sample Size: 12,100
Sample Notes:
Interview method: Telephone
Weight Location: Fweight: 569-576 (xx.xxxxxx)
No. of records per respondent: 1
Usage Notes: The study was conducted in 2 waves. Wave 1 was conducted from mid January-late April 2006 nationwide and in 14 communities and Wave 2 was conducted from April-August 2006 nationwide and in 8 communities.

Please note that data purchased from The Roper Center for Public Opinion Research may not be disseminated without written permission. The results of any analyses conducted on the data may, however, be published with appropriate acknowledgments and source citation.

Social Capital Community Survey: Methodology and Documentation

(January 5, 2009)

This document describes the research methods and procedures applied in the year 2006 Social Capital Community Survey, a research study undertaken by the Saguaro Seminar at the John F. Kennedy School of Government, Harvard University. It includes a description of the participating community's samples, the survey development process, sampling procedures, data collection procedures, the composite indices formed as measures of social capital and other constructed variables, weighting, statistical confidence intervals, and response rates.

1. Background and Objectives of the Research

Social capital is the societal analogue of physical or economic capital -- the value inherent in friendship networks and other associations which individuals and groups can draw upon to achieve private or collective objectives. In recent years, the concept has received increasing attention as accumulating evidence demonstrates the independent relationship between social capital and a wide range of desirable outcomes: economic success, improved school performance, decreased crime, higher levels of voting, and better health. Within communities, recent research supports the belief that social capital fosters norms of social trust and reciprocity, facilitating communal goals. The concept's theoretical richness and practical significance is becoming increasingly well-documented.¹

We conducted the Social Capital Benchmark Survey in 2000, nationally as well as in 41 U.S. communities, to measure various manifestations of social capital as well as its suspected correlates. The 2000 SCCBS (1) provided a rich database for analysis by interested researchers who wish to better understand social capital and (2) provided a tool for communities and organizations to use in program development and evaluation, in part, by enabling relative assessment to other communities and the nation.² The 2000 SCCBS, and subsequent follow-up and panel surveys conducted after Sept. 11, 2001 have been invaluable in convincing the government to begin measuring social capital in government surveys. This measurement has begun with measurement of volunteering, voting, attendance at public meetings and work on community projects, which will be asked in the November supplement to the Current Population Survey.³

² The national survey was funded jointly by a grant from the Ford Foundation; the community surveys, by 34 local community foundations. Technical support, management, and some initial data analysis was provided by staff at the Saguaro Seminar, John F. Kennedy School of Government – Harvard University.

We have returned to the field with this 2006 Social Capital Community Survey (SCCS) to assess change nation-wide and in the participating communities in dimensions of social capital.⁴

2. Field Period, Capsule Description of Samples and Methodology

Survey Time Period and Interview Length

The survey was conducted by telephone using random-digit-dialing (RDD) during two waves.

Wave 1 ran from mid-January to late April, 2006 and covered the following 14 communities:

	Sample Size	SAMP variable value
Arkansas (Siloam Springs, Pine Bluff, Van Buren, and Little Rock);	400	58
Baton Rouge, LA	400	3
Duluth, MN/Superior, WI	500	57
Greensboro, NC	450	31
Houston, TX	400	10
Kalamazoo, MI	500	12
Lewiston-Auburn, ME	500	56
Rochester, NY	700	44/45
San Diego, CA	501	15
Winston-Salem, NC	750	18
Yakima, WA	402	21
National Sample	1951	51 (and callback field =wave1)
Total	7454

³ This survey, administered on behalf the Bureau of Labor Statistics at the Dept. of Labor, and conducted through the Census Dept. surveys some 50,000 people to determine the unemployment figures that are reported monthly.

⁴ The 2006 SCCS generally was a follow-up survey in communities that participated in 2000, with the exception of the Duluth, Arkansas, and Kansas samples.

Wave 2 ran from April to August, 2006 and covered the following 8 communities: Kansas (samples in Kansas City, Junction City, Wichita, Garden City, Abilene, KS; rural sample; and urban sample in cities other than the above); New Hampshire (statewide with oversample in Cheshire county and I-93 corridor); Sarasota County, FL; and national sample.

	Sample Size	SAMP variable value
Kansas	2455	59
New Hampshire	901	27,28,29
Sarasota, FL	500	53
National Sample	790	51 (and callback field =wave2)
Total	4646

In total, some 12,100 respondents were interviewed across both waves.

[Note: you can break out the various respondents of the Arkansas and Kansas samples using the MSA variable.]

TNS Intersearch, an international survey firm, was commissioned to conduct the interviewing, prepare the data for analysis, and provide a “banner report” (detailed cross-tabulations). Interviews averaged 32 minutes in length.

Local Sample Design

Each sponsoring organization decided what specific area(s) were to be surveyed, how many interviews to conduct, and if specific areas or ethnic groups were to be over-sampled. In most cases, the survey area was one county or a cluster of contiguous counties; some of the community samples are municipalities and others are entire states. Most of the community surveys used proportionate sampling, that is, no over- or under-sampling of sub-areas or population groups. Most of the samples range in size from 400 – 800 interviews. (A complete list of communities surveyed along with each survey’s sponsor, sample size and geographic definition are shown in Table 1 below.)

National Survey

The national sample (N = 2,741) was conducted randomly across the Continental U.S.

Further details on the survey’s sampling methodology are presented below.

Table 1
Communities Surveyed, Geography of Area, and Sample Size

Sponsor	Area	Sample Size
		Goal	Actual
	Arkansas (Siloam Springs, Pine Bluff, Van Buren, and Little Rock) with sample of roughly 100 in each of these towns	400	400
	East Baton Rouge Parish	400	400
Duluth-Superior C.F.	Duluth (MN) and Superior (WI)	500	500
Greater Greensboro	Guilford County,	450	450
Greater Houston	Harris county	400	400
Kalamazoo C.F.	Kalamazoo County	500	500
Kansas Health Foundation	Kansas (statewide sample, and samples in Kansas City, Junction City, Wichita, Garden City, Abilene, KS) with sample of 350 in Junction City, 352 in Kansas City, 350 in Garden City, 350 in Abilene; 350 in Wichita; 351 rural; and 352 urban outside of the above communities.	2450	2455
Maine C.F.	Cities/Towns: Lewiston, Auburn, Greene, Sabattus, Lisbon, Mechanic Falls, Poland, Turner, Wales, Minot	500	500
New Hampshire C.F.	State of NH. (includes oversample of 200 in Cheshire County; 200 in I-93 corridor)	900	901
Rochester Area C.F.	Counties: Monroe, Wayne, Ontario, Livingston, Genesee, Orleans (includes oversample to achieve minimum of 100 Hispanics and 100 African Americans)	700	700
San Diego C.F.	San Diego County	500	501
Venice C.F.	Sarasota County	500	500
Winston-Salem	Forsyth County	750	750
Yakima	Yakima County	400	402

Note: none of the communities covering the polling applied geographic screening so depending on the fit between the target geographic areas and the phone exchange mapping, some of the interviews may have fallen outside the desired geographic areas.

3. Survey Instrument

Development Process

The 2006 SCCS Survey built heavily on the 2000 SCCBS Survey which was developed by the Saguaro Seminar in conjunction with the Scientific Advisory Committee that they formed.⁵

⁵ The Scientific Advisory Group in 2000 was comprised of the following people to advise about the best questions to ask and make sure the survey would be an effective way to measure

Questionnaire construction in 2000 followed an exhaustive process beginning with a listing of relevant content areas for the survey. Using this list, a thorough search was made to identify potential questions from previous surveys which would be suitable for use. Pertinent questions were borrowed from other surveys, whenever possible, to facilitate comparisons. For the 2006 SCCS, we removed questions that were less predictive of important outcome variables in 2000, and added in more questions to test the intersection between diversity, social capital, and equality.

The 2006 questionnaire developed for CATI programming underwent numerous redrafts, additional pretesting (beyond the extensive 2000 pretesting), and was revised several times before receiving final approval. It was then translated into Spanish, reviewed and revised, and then ultimately fielded.

Versioning

Because of budget limitations and the desire to avoid an extremely lengthy interview to preserve response quality, several sections/questions were administered to randomly selected portions of the sample. Typically such questions in surveys are designed in "split ballots" (where some respondents get questions A, B, and C; and other respondents get equally long questions D, E, and F). The disadvantage is that if one wants to understand how people who answered A interacted with the answers they gave to D for example, you can't do this, because no respondents get questions across these ballots.

Thus for the 2006 SCCS survey, we did the relatively innovative practice of randomizing by question rather than ballot (paired groups of questions). This way, one has data on the relationship between any two questions in the survey.

In addition, there was a series of about 10 questions, questions 39A-H that were administered only in Baton Rouge, Houston, Arkansas and in some cases in the national sample to gauge how the influx of Katrina refugees affected social patterns and attitudes.

social capital, given the diversity of the United States: Lawrence Bobo (Harvard University Department of Sociology); Xavier de Souza Briggs (Harvard University Kennedy School of Government); Michael delli Carpini (Columbia University Department of Political Science); Michael Dawson (University of Chicago Chairman of the Department of Political Science); Tom Guterbock (University of Virginia); Robert D. Phillip Thompson (Columbia University Department of Political Science).

A copy of the printed questionnaire reflecting the CATI interview administered to respondents has been provided to the Roper Center and is also available on the Saguario website at.

4. Sampling

RDD Sample Source and Sampling of Households

The Genesys™ system, a widely-recognized random-digit-dial survey telephone number generator, was used to produce the starting sample telephone numbers. Genesys is a list-assisted sampling procedure which generates numbers from all working residential hundred-banks (area code + exchange + digits 7 and 8; example: 215 654-78XX) of possible telephone numbers corresponding to the targeted geographic area – the boundaries of the community's geography, as specified by the sponsor. A hundred-bank is determined to be "working residential" if it contained at least one two directory-listed residential phone numbers.

As in all RDD telephone surveys, prefixes (area code + exchange combinations, sometimes called 10,000-banks) were selected which correspond to the area being surveyed. The degree of correspondence is not perfect and depends, among other factors, on the size of the geographic unit being surveyed: the larger the area, the more likely that a phone number from a given prefix will fall within the indicated borders. Correspondence is very high with state lines, fairly high with large county boundaries, less so with smaller counties, and so forth. The same size – degree of fit relationship applies among municipalities. Irregularly shaped borders can also complicate (lessen) the tightness of the correspondence.

Most sponsors were willing to accept some degree of slippage between sample phone exchanges and desired geography – and tolerate an expected small percentage of their final sample falling outside the geographic definition of their community – rather than implement more expensive respondent screening.

Disproportionate Stratification in Some Community Surveys

Except in Rochester, New Hampshire and Kansas, where there was over-sampling, proportionate random sampling was used to select households from the relevant communities. [The Rochester oversample oversampled in exchanges that had a disproportionate share of blacks and Hispanics to increase the number of respondents in those categories. The NH sample included, as was the case in the 2000 SCCBS survey, an oversample of 200 respondents in Cheshire County and an oversample of 200 respondents in the I-93 Corridor..]

Selection of Respondents

The “last-birthday” method of respondent selection was used to randomly select one adult in contacted households:

So that all types of people are represented in our survey, may I please speak to the person 18 years or older living in your household who last had a birthday?

Substitution of alternate respondents was not permitted: If the designated respondent was unwilling or unavailable to be interviewed throughout the full complement of contact attempts, that phone number was assigned the appropriate non-response code.

5. Interviewing Procedures

Interviewers, Training, and Supervision

TNS Intersearch selected experienced interviewers to conduct the telephone survey interviews. Interviewers worked from centralized telephone interviewing facilities under continuous supervision of senior staff. The survey’s large scale required use of multiple interviewing centers. All of the interviewing in Spanish was conducted by bilingual interviewers from one facility in California. A small number of interviews in Cantonese were conducted in the San Francisco survey by experienced survey interviewers fluent in Cantonese and English.

Interviewers were thoroughly briefed on the specifics of the survey before beginning, using a customized Interviewer Guide prepared for this survey. Refresher briefings were administered periodically, especially on techniques of obtaining respondent cooperation. Interviews in progress were also intermittently monitored for quality control. Interviewers not performing up to standard were retrained and, if necessary, replaced.

Contact Regimen

To minimize the number of non-contacts, at least 11 attempts were made (initial dialing plus 10 call-backs) before sampled telephone numbers were replaced. In many cases – particularly when re-contact appointments were made and eventual contact seemed likely – there were more than 11 dialings to sampled numbers, and in some cases as high as 30. Successive contact attempts were scheduled at different times of the day and week, and the full complement typically spanned a period of at least one month, often longer, to maximize the chance of eventual contact.

To minimize the number of refusals and increase participation, skilled “refusal conversion” interviewers attempted to re-contact those initially opting out of the survey (or hanging up abruptly) and persuade the designated respondent in the household to agree to be interviewed. Such efforts did not include “hard refusals” – where the person answering was decidedly adamant about not participating, or was angry or abusive to the interviewer.

6. Constructed Social Capital Indices and Related Variables

As noted: many of the indices that we computed in 2000 can not directly be constructed in 2006 because some of the constituent items were not asked. For more on the 2000 indices that we constructed see our 2000 documentation on the Roper site at:
<http://webapps.ropercenter.uconn.edu/CFIDE/roper/collectioninterest/webrot/registration.cfm?subject=SCC>

7. Other Constructed Variables in Data Files

Apart from the social capital indices (and related variables) described in the previous section, several other variables which do not appear on the questionnaire were computed or appended and included in the data files:

METSTAT – A “metropolitan status” code provided for each sample telephone number, measuring location of place of residence relative to MSA center city or if not part of an MSA: center city of MSA, same county as MSA center city but not center city, other county of MSA, in MSA with no center city, and non-MSA.

ETHNIC4 – A recoding of race and Hispanic ethnicity into four primary racial/ethnic categories: non-Hispanic white, non-Hispanic black, Hispanic, and Asian.

AGE – A recoding of year of birth into age.

WEIGHT –weight for each sample.

FWEIGHT – Downweights oversampled areas to produce community weights.

RESPID – Respondent’s unique identification number.

CALLD – Date of interview.

SAMP – Code representing the community interviewed or the sample.

CENSDIV – Code representing one of nine U.S. Census divisions.

CALL – Number of contact attempts required to complete interview.

LANGASK – Language of interview (English or Spanish).

Frequency of Civic/Social Activities Which Combine Follow-Up Probe

PARADE2 – Q56A: CPARADE and PARADE.

ARTIST2 – Q56B: CARTIST and ARTIST.

CARDS2 – Q56C: CCARDS and CARDS.
FAMVIS2 – Q56D: CFAMVISI and FAMVISIT.
CLUBS2 – Q56E: CCLUBMET and CLUBMEET.
FRNDHOM2 – Q56F: CFRDVIST and FRDVISIT.
FRNDRAC2 – Q56G: CFRDRAC and FRDRAC.
JOBSOC2 – Q56H: CJOBSOC and JOBSOC.
FRNDHNG2 – Q56I: CFRDHANG and FRDHANG.
TEAMSPT2 – Q56J: CSOCSPT and SOCSPT.
WWWCHAT2 – Q56K: CWWWCHAT and WWWCHAT.
PUBMEET2 – Q56L: CPUBMEET and PUBMEET.
NEIHOME2 – Q56M: CNEIHOME and NEIHOME
HMEXNEI2 – Q56N: CHMEXNEI and HOMEXNEI
VOLTME2 – Q58: CVOLTME and VOLTME.

Interviewers asked how often the respondent engaged in each activity (Q56A-N, 58) in two different ways. First: How many times in the past 12 months have you [participated in activity X]? Those who could not, or did not, answer the initial, open-ended question were asked a follow-up, probe specifying frequencies to try to make it easier for the respondent to provide an answer: Would you say you never did this, did it once, a few times, about once a month on average, twice a month, about once a week on average, or more often than that? For each item, the variable name for the initial question (“How many times have you...”) begins with a “C” (e.g., CPARADE), the variable name for the probe is similar but omits the “C” (e.g., PARADE), and the variable which combines the two distributions (those answering the initial question and those answering the probe) ends with a “2” (e.g., PARADE2). Users will most commonly want to use the combined variables in their analysis.

[Note: for the combined variables in this series (of the form PARADE2, ARTIST2, etc.) answers of “53” to the actual numerical estimate (e.g., CPARADE) and answers of 9 (“more than every week”) to the range-prompted questions (e.g., PARADE) were coded as 60 times per year.]

8. Weighting the Data

The data weighting involved three steps: (1) calculation of an initial weight, (2) calculation of the balancing weight, and (3) multiplying these two weights to produce the final weight (FWEIGHT).

Initial Weight

The initial weight takes account of (a) the number of adults in the household and (b) the number of telephone lines in the household through which someone could be contacted. Calculation of the initial weight is straightforward:

Initial weight = number of household adults / number of phone lines

Example: If there were 3 adults and 2 phone numbers, the initial weight would be 1.5. (The number of adults entered into the formula was capped at 3 to avoid excessive variance. The number of phones was capped at 2.)

For those samples with geographic disproportionality -- where specifications called for different proportions of interviews with residents in different parts of the sample area relative to population size -- a further adjustment was made to the initial weight. For example, if residents in the center city made up 25% of the population of the county of which it is a part, but had 50% of the interviews, then each center city respondent's initial weight would be halved and each non center city respondent's weight would be increased by 50% ($.75/.50 = 1.5$).⁶

Balancing Weight

The purpose of the balancing weight is to reproduce the population distributions in the sample on four demographic characteristics: gender, age, education, and race/ethnicity. The best available population estimates were used as the target proportions for calculating the balancing weights – either U.S. Census (CPS) figures (in a minority of samples) or MSG estimates, from Marketing Systems Group, which provided the Genesys™ RDD sample.

Weighting calculations are based on the marginal frequency distributions of the four balancing weight variables. For community samples, univariate distributions ("marginals") for each of the four demographics (gender, age, education, and race) were used. These were entered into a program which uses an iterative process to estimate cell weights – a procedure known as "marginal weighting" or "raking." The algorithm attempts to reproduce the marginal distributions as closely as possible while minimizing variation across the cell weights.

For the balancing weight variables, the categories used in most of the samples were: gender: male, female; age: 18-34, 35-44, 45-64, 65+; education: college graduate, not college graduate; and race/ethnicity: Hispanic, non-Hispanic black, all others. When available, additional categories were sometimes used for education and race/ethnicity to afford greater precision. Additional categories were employed in the weighting only when they constituted at least 5% of the respective survey's estimated population and the sample cell was non-empty. (Appendix C shows the population estimates used to calculate the balancing weights, by community, and their source.)

9. Polarity

⁶ This applies in Rochester (oversampled area: 10.5% of sample, rest of city: 89.5%), New Hampshire (Cheshire Co.: 22.3% of sample; I-93 corridor 22.2% of sample, rest of state: 55.5%), and in Kansas.

In the files that TNSI sent out, the variables and the indices had inconsistent polarity: i.e., in some cases a higher score meant more of that variable and in other cases it meant less of that variable. It is easier to work with data variables that all have consistent polarity, so that, for example, when variables X and Y have a negative correlation you know that more of X corresponds with less of Y, and that it is not an artifact of one of these variables having reversed coding. We recommend that variables be recoded so they have consistent polarity. For an indication of how to do this, please refer to the latest version of the 2000 Codebook for a list of how all the variables and indices are coded. [Also, please note that in some cases a variable with inconsistent polarity was recoded onto the same variable -- for example, the quality of life variable (QOL) was recoded with the correct polarity but still has the same name as it originally had. In other cases, variables with reversed polarity were recoded into new variables; for example, since a higher score on TRUST meant less trust, not more, a new variable TRUST2 was created with the reoriented polarity. Any variable that has been superceded by a new variable with a different name and reversed polarity is so noted below each variable in the codebook.]

10. Response Rates

Survey response rates are shown in Table 3. The first column (Response Rate) displays the overall response rate, unadjusted for incidence of eligibility:

$$RR = (I + P) / ((I + P + R + NC + O + e(UH)),$$

where:

- I = the number of completed interviews
- P = the number of partial interviews
- R = the number of refusals and terminations
- NC = the number of households where the designated respondent was not reached (and there was no explicit refusal)
- O = other (health or language barriers)
- UH = unknown eligibility / unknown if household – mostly repeated busy signal or Caller ID block

The proportion of unknowns estimated to be eligible (e) was .2.⁷ In most samples, there was no geographic or race/ethnicity screening, so all adults qualified (incidence = 100%). For those samples, the Response Rate and Adjusted Response Rate are the same.

In the community surveys where screening occurred (as in the national survey), incidence was less than 100% -- requiring an adjustment to make the screened and unscreened sample response rates comparable. The adjustment consisted of multiplying the sum of the non-response categories in the denominator of the formula $[R, NC, O, e(UH)]$ by the estimated incidence⁸ and recalculating RR.

The incidence proportion was calculated as the sum of (the completed interviews plus partial interviews⁹ plus terminates) divided by the sum of (the completed interviews plus partial interviews plus terminates plus the number of households screened and determined to be ineligible).

The Adjusted Cooperation Rate uses the same logic as the Adjusted Response Rate – only it deletes the NC, O, and $e(UH)$ terms from the denominator. Essentially, it the number of eligible respondents reached who chose to participate and completed an interview. The Cooperation Rate (or Adjusted Cooperation Rate) is the inverse of the Refusal Rate: $\text{Coop Rate} = 1 - \text{Refusal Rate}$.

⁸ This adjustment assumes that the likelihood of contact and cooperation following contact was the same among eligible and ineligible respondents. This assumption may be less valid in some samples/locations than in others. To the extent it does not apply, the estimated adjusted rate will be inaccurate.

⁹ In this survey, “partial interviews” are those which were begun but not completed and there was no explicit refusal to continue. They are not included in the files.

* Proportion qualifying as eligible for survey

 Response rate adjusted for incidence of eligibility (see footnote 10 in report)

 Percent of those estimated as eligible who agreed to participate and complete interview

As Table 3 shows, Adjusted Response Rates ranged from a low of 13.5% (Sarasota) to a high of 25.4% (Lewiston, Auburn). The average adjusted response rate across all respondents in the community samples was 19.3% - which compares with 16.7% in the National Sample.

Cooperation rates ranged from 14.5% (Houston) to 28.7% (Lewiston, Auburn), and averaged 23.6% across all respondents in the community samples. The National Sample cooperation rate was 21.3%

Response rates and cooperation rates are affected by judgments about classifying various types of dispositions as well as the size of the e term. These decisions were guided by an effort to be conservative but fair to the construal of the rates as performance measures.

Notes to Users:

A) These 2006 social capital community survey data are being supplied on an as-is basis (as supplied by the polling firm with only modest changes from us to repolarize data or merge variables that need to be combined). You will most likely need to do various massaging of these data before analysis.

Note: these data are NOT necessarily being supplied in a consistent form with the 2000 Social Capital Community Benchmark Survey so please take care in your analyses.

B) Some of these questions were only asked of respondents in Katrina-affected parts of the country, like Arkansas, Baton Rouge or Houston, and some questions were only asked of the national sample. [Most of these questions are question 39A-H.] One question about trust in co-religionists (7C) was asked only in Winston-Salem, Greensboro and of a random 33% of national sample.

Some changes you may want to make to these files:

1) Create EDUC_ALL from EDUC and GED, and maybe create an intervalized ED_YEARS variable and create educational dummies. Create RACE_ALL from various racial responses.

2) Create work status dummies from LABOR and a 'working' dummy.

3) Create WORKTIME (counting nonworkers as 0).

4) Create dummies for marital status and create a LIVEPART variable (living with partner) counting those who are currently married as 0.

5) Create immigrant status variables and immigrant generation variables.

6) Reorder POLKNOW into POLKNOW2 that corresponds to increasing political knowledge.

7) Racial trust: create RACETRST, TRSTOWN, RTSTBLK, RTSTWHT, RTSTASN, RTSTHIS variables of composite racial group trust (see 2000 SCCBS codebook to see how this was done).

8) Creating indices: (instructions on how we did these things in 2000 is in our 2000 codebook, available from Roper), but in some cases we didn't ask all of the underlying questions so you will have to take great care in blindly replicating any 2000 indices:

- CIVPART
- DIVRSITY
- GRPINVLV, GRPINVL2
- SOCTRUST
- FAITHBA2
- CHARITY
- PROTEST
- SCHMOOZ
- ORGINTER
- ELECPOL
- MACHER

9) Recode RELMEM into RELMEM2 counting those with no religion as not church members.

10) Recode OFFICER & REFORM into 0 when respondent doesn't belong to any organization.

11) Create a new RELPART variable that codes this as 0 when respondent is not religious

13) Create new JOBSOC3 that counts non-workers as 0

14) Create new attitude variables towards inter-racial marriage that exclude the same racial/ethnic group (e.g., recode MARASN into MAR2ASN, but just for non-Asian respondents)

15) HISP NAT categories may not be consistent with 2000 SCCBS survey that we conducted.

16) for KS, NH and Arkansas samples you can get a breakdown of where those interviews were with MSA variable (for NH and Arkansas) or with MSA and qcell (for Kansas).

C) These data are being provided as a public utility. If you use these data in any publication, please properly attribute these data as "The 2006 Social Capital Community Survey.
